
Clothing from Valueline/Tryce Demina

Posted by Amy - 2007/10/14 03:51

Item Rating -

10

Short Comment -

Great value, I'm completely satisfied

Longer description (optional) -

I won several auctions from Valueline this week. I won three colors of the ribbed turtleneck sweater and a dressy gold outfit. When I got the items I saw that they were created by Tryce so I thought I'd mention that here as well. I love the sweater which is why I bid on it in several color ranges. I say color ranges because each sweater auction actually came with three different hues. For example, the blue sweater came with dark blue, medium blue, and light blue versions. The prim collar is a really nice feature because it adds realism and depth to the sweater. I had actually seen this sweater awhile ago at SLX and it caught my eye then. Since I ended up getting the different colors for $12L to $20L each, I'm glad I waited.

The gold dressy outfit I won is a two piece set of pants and a top. The detailing especially on the top is first rate and really sexy. I can't wait to have an occasion to wear it to. I've seen outfits like this selling for some steep prices in stores and at SLX so I think I got an awesome deal. :cheer:

Overall, I'm very happy with the seller and looking forward to what they'll be offering next.

=====